ALBANY, September 19.

His Excellency Sir Henry Moore, Baronet, arrived here on Thurſday laſt, late in the Evening, from his Expedition on Lake Champlain, and proceeded immediately to Captain Schuyler's; from whence he ſet out again Yeſterday for Schenectady, in his Way to Sir William Johnſon's, attended by ſeveral Gentlemen of this City.——Whilſt his Excellency and General Carleton, were employed in ſettling the Boundaries between the two Provinces, the Cachnawagha Indians, reſiding on the River St. Lawrence, having been informed of their Arrival at the upper End of Lake Champlain, ſent a Deputation to welcome them, which they received in their Tents, on the Iſle de la Motte, with the uſual Ceremonies; and were addreſſed by one of the Chiefs in the following Words;

Brothers, Governors of New-York and Quebec,

THE ſeven confederate Nations of the Province of Quebec, having heard of your coming to theſe Parts, thought it their Duty to ſend a Deputation to wait upon, and to addreſs you on your Arrival.—We their Deputies, therefore, thank the BEING above, for having been pleaſed to let us meet you in good Health, and for having guarded you on your Journey from any Accident; and likewiſe for having protected our new Governor on his Voyage over the Great-Lake, to arrive ſafe in his Government; and we moſt heartily bid him welcome, and wiſh him perfect Health and Happineſs to govern the ſame, recommending the Indian Nations in his Government to his Favour and Protection; this we confirm with theſe Strings of Wampum.

Brothers,

Having at the ſame Time heard, that you were to aſcertain and fix the Boundaries between your reſpective Provinces, we ſaw it a very proper and convenient Opportunity, to return the Great King of England, our Father, our moſt humble Thanks, through you, for having moſt graciouſly taken Notice of all Indian Nations, their Lands, and Trade in America, in his Royal Proclamation of October 1763; which our Friend and Brother Sir William Johnſon, had then publiſhed to us, by his Deputy, Captain Claus: And we moſt heartily requeſt of you, to ſupport and protect us in the ſame, as our Hunting-Grounds lay chiefly in your two Governments. A large Belt of black Wampum.

Brothers,

Since we lived under the French Government, we enjoyed our Hunting and Fiſhing about this Lake, without Interruption or Moleſtation; and were aſſured by the French Governor to continue ſo to do, as long as we lived hereabouts. As to the Dominion of the Lake, and the Lands thereupon, it is true, he reſerved that to the French King; but as to the wild Beaſts in the Wood, and the Fiſh in the Waters thereof, he ſaid they were for the Uſe of the Indian Nations living about it, without Exception; and which accordingly we have enjoyed above this eighty Years paſt: But now, Brothers, ſince this Lake and Country is in your Poſſeſſion, we find there have ſeveral Settlements been making thereupon, which although it was not the Caſe in the French Time, yet we make no Objection to it; all that ſurpriſes and alarms us is, that ſome of theſe new Settlers have told to ſome of our People, that they ſhould not hunt within their Right; ſhould this be the Caſe, and they have it in their Power ſo to do, it would at once fruſtrate our preſent Hopes of his Majeſty's Good-Will towards us, and deprive us of our principal Subſiſtance and Livelihood.——And we beg by this Belt of Wampum, that you would be pleaſed to ſupport us in what his Majeſty was graciouſly pleaſed to reſerve to us, and be glad of your Opinion and Anſwer upon what we have now laid before you.

A long Belt of Wampum.

Brothers.

What we have been ſpeaking to you, concerning the Lake and Lands in Queſtion, was only ſince the Time the Europeans have come amongſt us; as to the original Owners thereof, it is well known to have been the undiſputed Right of the Six Nations, and was chiefly occupied in the hunting Seaſons by the ancient Mohawks, whoſe Deſcendants we are; and our Forefathers going to hunt, chiefly in this Neighbourhood, was one of the principal Reaſons for our ſettling upon the River St. Lawrence, near Montreal; as whenever they killed any Game neareſt that Market, they carried it there, and being well received and flattered by the French; and on the contrary, ſlighted and neglected by the Dutch, who then poſſeſſed the Province of New-York; Families after Families ſettled and remained in Canada, which occaſioned the Eſtabliſhment of what to this Day is called the French Mohawks, and where we now live.—As to the firſt Building ever made upon Lake Champlain, it is well known to be Crown-Point, which our middle-aged Men all well remember; and the Six Nations hearing of it, immediately remonſtrated againſt it to the French Governor, who telling them it was to guard againſt a ſudden Attack from the Engliſh, prevailed upon them, with Difficulty, to let him finiſh it; which at laſt they conſented to, with Condition, that no other Settlement ſhould be made upon the Lake hereafter, which he readily engaged in, and promiſed to obſerve.

Brothers,

The laſt Part of our Speech we have only made you by Way of Information; and therefore give no Wampum upon it.

To which their Excellencies returned the following Anſwer,

BROTHERS,

WE return you our ſincere Thanks for your Compliments of Congratulation on our Arrival here; and are extremely happy in having the earlieſt Opportunity of giving you the ſtrongeſt Aſſurances of our Good-Will towards you.

Brothers,

As we are perſuaded you will not be wanting on your Parts, to merit that Protection which has been granted to you by the Britiſh Crown, we ſhall always diſcourage every Attempt made in our reſpective Provinces of New-York and Quebec, to diſturb you in thoſe Rights and Privileges which have been confirmed to you; and ſhall endeavour, by every Means to promote a mutual Confidence and good Underſtanding with the Seven Confederate Nations; recommending it to you, at the ſame Time, on this, as well as on any future Occaſion, to make a proper Diſtinction between Acts of Government, and the Proceedings of Individuals; nor to ſuppoſe, from the raſh and unjuſtifiable Actions of particular Perſons, that any publick Countenance will be given to Violence and Oppreſſion.

Several Preſents were afterwardes made to them, of different Kinds of Proviſions; with which, as well as the Aſſurances of Protection given to them, they appeared highly ſatisfied, and ſet out on their return the ſame Day.

PHILADELPHIA, October 2.

Extract of a Letter from London, Auguſt 9, 1766.

"We are very much concerned to hear Mr. FRANKLIN's Character is called in Queſtion, on Account of the Part he acted the laſt Seſſion of Parliament; ſo far from being an Abettor of the Stamp-Act, his Evidence, at the Bar of the Houſe, was allowed to be one of the ſtrongeſt, and moſt ſatisfactory, in Favour of the Repeal, and of the Colonies; and we are firmly perſuaded, his utmoſt Endeavours were at all Times exerted to that End, having been Eye-Witneſſes of his Aſſiduity, in attending the Committees of the Merchants, and of his publick Behaviour at different Times, in the two laſt Seſſions of Parliament.

SARGENT, CHAMBERS, and Company."

Extract of a Letter from London, July 3, 1766.

"You muſt have ſeen in the publick prints, the attempts Heraclius, a Georgian prince, is making to throw off the Turkiſh Yoke, and the ſucceſs he has met with; what I am going to relate, is the ſteps he took towards it. The firſt neceſſary thing was to inſtruct his Countrymen in the uſe of arms, and train them in the European diſcipline; in order to this, he opened his deſign to a young man, about his own age, of great good ſenſe, and a military genius, ſon to the richeſt merchant in the place. It was agreed between them, that Joſeph Armine (for that is his Name) ſhould come to England, and endeavour to ſerve in our armies, till he had rendered himſelf perfect enough in the art of war, to be able to diſcipline his Countrymen; he therefore attempted to gain his fathers's leave (under the pretence of trade) to come in a genteel Manner, but the father would by no means hear of it; however, ſometime after, he ſent him with a carravan to Perſia, to manage his commerce there; ſoon after their arrival, Armine ſcraped together what money he could, and giving the carravan the ſlip, made his way to ſome of our Eaſt-India ſettlements, intending to get on board ſome of our ſhips, and, in the mean time, trying to learn our language; there he was forced to remain, till he had no more money left than was juſt ſufficient to bribe a ſailor, belonging to one of our men of war, to conceal him on board till they were out at ſea, when he was to work as well as he could for his paſſage. In this manner he came to England, was landed at Wapping, without a farthing in his pocket, which obliged him, for preſent ſupport, to hire himſelf to fetch in pots at an ale-houſe there. When the people of the houſe aſked his name, he told them it was, Cock-eyed Son of a Bitch, which it ſeems the ſailors uſed to call him, and he knew ſo little of Engliſh, that he really thought it a proper Name.—At this place he ſtayed till he could talk it pretty well. When he came to London, he, for a livelihood, took up the honourable trade of a ſhoe-black, continually frequenting the Parade, and all places where he could ſee the ſoldiers exerciſe, and aſking them queſtions about the battles they had been in;

but his constant stand, at a Bow-black, was at Northumberland House; it happened while he stood there, one of the grooms was attempting to break a fine Arabian horse in the court-yard; the fellow did it so awkwardly, that Armine was out of patience; he ran in, and told him, he would ruin the horse entirely, but if he would leave it to him, he would shew him how to deal with an Arabian horse; the groom swore at, and abused him, but still could make nothing of it himself, while Armine stood stumping, and making a hundred contortions.——At last, a crowd of servants, who were gathered about, persuaded the groom to let him try (expecting the diversion of seeing him break his neck) the fellow, in a passion, bid him get on, and be d---'d. Immediately Armine ran to the horse, vaulted into the saddle at one leap, and in two minutes made the creature perform what paces he pleased.——The noise this occasioned among the servants, reached my Lord's ear, who was soon told the reason, and sent for him in, when, after a good deal of discourse about horses, finding, by his answers, he was a man of sense, my Lord enquired what brought him to England, and how he came to be in so miserable a condition. Armine told him his whole story, and named a merchant in London, who his father corresponded with, but to whom he would not make himself known, fearing that his father, who he knew guessed he was come to England, might have writ to him to send him back again, if he could be found. On my Lord's sending to this merchant, he found it was really the case; the father had writ to him to find his son, if possible, pay any debts he had contracted, and give him sixty pounds, if he would come back; if not, to leave him to starve. Armine refused to go; my Lord took him into his house, cloathed and entertained him at his table, till the time our troops went abroad, when he recommended him to the Duke of Cumberland, with whom he served a campaign as a volunteer, fighting always near the duke. He afterwards served two campaigns under the King of Prussia. Prince Heraclius had then left his country, and was serving under the same king; there they met, and, after two campaigns, returned together to Georgia, where they roused the spirits of their countrymen, instructed them in the art of war, and have had the success you must have seen. Armine is now the general of Heraclius's Army."

"This Court seems determined upon the reduction of Corsica, having ordered fresh forces for that purpose. It is whispered that their real intent is to conquer it for themselves, while others say that by a secret treaty, the Genoese have ceded part of the island to them, in consideration of their giving sufficient and immediate assistance to reduce the rebels.--People wonder that our English ministry don't consider how prejudicial it would be to their trade that the French should get footing in Corsica, as this would render Port Mahon and Gibraltar in a great measure useless to them in time of war, the only time these places are of importance. I will not say as some do, that we can and therefore ought to make ourselves Masters of Corsica, but I am humbly of opinion that we ought to prevent its being conquered by any other Nation, not excepting even the Genoese, who can neither conquer nor retain it, without entering into an alliance with France, or some other Nation, which would be detrimental to us."

CHARLES-TOWN, NOVEMBER 4.

A Few Months since died at Winyaw, in this Province, Mrs. Elizabeth Green, Widow of the late Mr. John Green.—She came here from Bermuda a young Girl, married on James-Island, and removed to Winyaw several Years before the Indian War in 1715.—She lived to see her Children and Grand-Children to the fourth Generation, her Grand-Daughter having a Grand-Daughter born within that Period; and what is still more remarkable, she never had Occasion for the Use of Spectacles, and read very distinctly but three Days before she died.—Her Age is supposed to be little short of One Hundred Years.

On Tuesday the 28th ult. the Ship Happy-St. Andrew, Richard Bissell, Master, from Oporto for Philadelphia, was unfortunately cast-away on the Coffin-Land-Reef, to the Southward of our Bar, in a hard Gale of Wind, and went to pieces in four Hours.—The Captain imagined himself to be near 100 Leagues from the Land, having been drove off greatly to the Southward by the late hard Gales of Wind which we have had.—The Master and Eleven of the Crew saved themselves in the Long-Boat, among whom was Mr. Henry Nevill, a Passenger, who has lost a considerable Interest by this Misfortune; but a Man named Joseph Lambert, and Patrick Herring, a Servant Boy of the Captain's, were unhappily drowned.—When the Boat got to shore on the Coffin-Land-Island, the Captain and Crew luckily met with Messrs. Henry & Samuel Samways, who gave them all the Assistance in their Power, and by whose Means they were enabled to proceed for Town, where they arrived on Thursday Evening last.

On Saturday last, his Majesty's Sloop Chaleaurs, commanded by Captain Thomas Laughame, arrived here in 14 Days from Halifax.—She sailed in Company with his Majesty's Ship Launceston, of 40 Guns, bound for Virginia, to relieve the Squirrel, Captain Smith, ordered Home.

The same Day put in here, the Schooner Brave-Benjamin, Capt. Eyres, bound from Pensacola for New-York.—She sailed from Pensacola the 20th of September last, but meeting hard Gales of Wind, and after being 26 Days at sea, bore away for Georgia, where she safely arrived: They then got a fresh Supply of Provisions and Water, and proceeded on their intended Voyage, but meeting a second Time with hard Gales of Wind, were obliged to put in here as above mentioned.

Also the same Day put in here, for a Supply of Provisions and Water, Capt. White, in a Schooner from North-Carolina for New-York, having met with hard Gales of Wind off Cape-Hatteras, which drove him to the Southward of this Port.

The General Assembly of this Province, are to meet here on Tuesday next, according to their last Adjournment.

The Address of the Commons House of Assembly of this Province to the King's most sacred Majesty, upon the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, was presented by Charles Garth, Esq; Agent for this Province, on the Sixth of September last, and was graciously received.—Mr. Garth had the Honour to kiss his Majesty's Hand.
